APPENDIX TO DETERMINATION 1013 of 2018

GUIDELINES TO CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICERS AND EMPLOYEES

1. General

Professional Excellence Status is a system designed to reward the efforts of those employees whose past, present and future performance is judged to be of a standard significantly higher than that which is required for the job.

Such performance will be of a level that is judged to be consistent with one or more of the following principles:

- providing a significantly high standard of service to internal and external clients and stakeholders,
- significant in its contribution to advancing the economic and/or social interests of the Northern Territory,
- significant in its contribution to the advancement of the Northern Territory Public Sector (NTPS); and
- making a high level contribution to a body of knowledge and understanding in the individual's professional field.

2. Application / Nomination Process

The responsibility for implementing the Professional Excellence Status scheme in an agency rests with the Chief Executive Officer. Chief Executive Officers will devise and implement procedures for the nomination or application by employees to the scheme. Applications or nominations could be called annually, biannually, quarterly or on an ongoing basis according to agency preferences.

3. Key Selection Criteria

Employees are required to demonstrate to an Assessment Panel that they satisfy a relevant combination of the Key Selection Criteria to warrant the granting of Professional Excellence Status.

It is not necessary for employees to fully address or satisfy all the Key Selection Criteria as some are relevant only to specific professional fields. Employees therefore need only prepare their application against the Key Selection Criteria relevant to their position. Employees may also choose to submit information on aspects of their work performance which is additional, or different from, the Key Selection Criteria, but that is otherwise relevant to the application.

Assessment Panels should assess applications taking into account the broader context of the applicant's achievements and ongoing high performance. There is no weighting or order of importance assigned to any of the Key Selection Criteria and employees performing at a consistently high standard in operational or service roles are to be assessed on an equal basis to those employees in more research or academically based pursuits.

To qualify for such status, the employee must demonstrate satisfaction of the Key Selection Criteria for service performed preceding the employee's application / nomination and a clear indication that future performance would be consistent with the standard already achieved.

(a) Standard of Performance

Consistent demonstration of high performance in excess of the standards normally required or expected of the employee's role and duties within the agency. This could include making a significant contribution(s) to the attainment of business outcomes within an agency.

(b) Innovation

Development of new approaches to work that improve efficiency or quality of outcomes and which are adopted by the employee's work unit, agency and more widely.

(c) Formal Professional Leadership Role

- Recognition by universities or other tertiary educational institutions through awards and honorary or other appointments.
- Success in attracting funding to the Territory in grants for research.

(d) Professional Mentor / Leadership Role

- Recognition as a mentor by professional colleagues and students at various levels.
- Frequency of consultation by other colleagues.
- Recognition as "local" expert in their professional field.

(e) International / National Standing

International recognition may place applicants ahead of those of national standing alone, or would substitute for national recognition in cases where the speciality was not widely practised in Australia.

- Positions on editorial boards of peer - reviewed professional journals.
- Elections as fellows of relevant national / international professional bodies.
- Invitations to deliver keynote addresses at national and international workshops, conferences or symposia.
- Substantial role (eg Chair, Program Leader) in national or international research projects or professional committees, enquiries or the like.

- Receipt of significant awards or fellowships completed for or evaluated at national or international level.

(f) Publication Record

Particularly relevant to employees engaged in original research or where communication of information of a specialist nature is a primary goal.

- Frequency of publication in peer - reviewed journals / periodicals.
- Frequency of invitation to contribute reviews of important topics or otherwise express views on issues of a specialist nature.
- Measures of influence on national or international trends through citation indices or similar.
- Publication of major reference or popular works (books) on issues of national or international significance and interest.

4. Assessment Panel

Chief Executive Officers must appoint an assessment panel which is suitably qualified and experienced. This could be internally and/or externally peer based or through another body within an agency. Applicants should be advised of the composition of the panel.

An Assessment Panel must evaluate applications in a fair and equitable manner having regard to the designation level and the duties performed by the applicant.
