Overview

It is widely accepted that the great majority of our learning takes place ‘on the job’. What is not commonly understood is that for this to be most effective we need to invest time and energy reflecting, clarifying and consolidating what we have learned.

This practical two day workshop will explore your journey and experiences to this point to identify key ‘lessons learned’, both positive and not so. Some of these lessons will have directly involved you whereas others will have occurred ‘around you’. Nevertheless our aim will be to clarify core principles to help you to better lead and manage others, resolve complex issues and make critical decisions and importantly shape a pathway forward through constant turbulence.

Who should attend this course?

The program is best suited to those who have been in managerial or leadership roles for long enough to have developed a catalogue of experiences they can reflect on. It will also suit those who are looking to ‘reboot’ their career to that they can transition to the next level.
