

Making documents and forms inclusive

This free one-hour training session will be delivered by Digital Communications, Department of Corporate and Information Services (DCIS).

Who should attend

The training is aimed at:

- staff who write content for the web
- staff who write and prepare documents for publishing on the web
- web editors
- communications staff involved in the web.

If staff from regional areas wish to participate, video conference or Skype is available.

What is included

Participants can expect to learn about the following:

- NTG templates
- making your documents accessible
- creating accessible forms
- a demonstration of how to build a basic form.

Contact

For bookings and information, contact digital.communications@nt.gov.au or call 8924 3821.