

Leadership for Change Agents

Dates: 31 May - 2 June 2017

Location: Vibe, Darwin

The program

This program explores leadership as a process of shared learning, discovery and experimentation.

It provides an overview of the key aspects of understanding change, analysing undercurrents, teasing out contradictions, building partnerships and exploring opportunities for action.

Leadership is seen as a creative act based on diversity and adaptation which helps to increase the problem-solving capacity of a community to deal with new and emerging issues.

Participants will explore their own leadership challenge to identify the underlying issues at stake and potential responses.

Program benefits

- A framework for leadership
- Understanding leadership as shared social learning
- Diagnostic framework distinguishing Technical and Adaptive leadership challenges
- Clarifying the distinction between Leadership and Authority
- Potential actions for your leadership challenge

Who should attend

This program is designed for senior staff who are exploring methods to address their own leadership challenges and ideally targets SAO1's (or equivalent) and above.

Course Leader - Paul Porteous

Paul's extensive leadership experience includes work as a senior diplomat and international lawyer, representative to numerous international organisations including the United Nations and International Court of Justice, and as a consultant in the United States, South East Asia, China, Middle East, Europe and Africa. He has been both Visiting Faculty at Harvard Kennedy School and a Fellow at Harvard's Center for Public Leadership where he received the "Dean's Award for Excellence in Student Teaching".

In Australia, Paul is Director of Leadership and International Development at the Institute for Governance and Policy Analysis and also Director of the Centre for Social Leadership (www.social-leadership.org), developing innovative programs across government, business and community sectors. From 2005-2009, Paul was Senior Adviser to the President of Madagascar, developing cutting edge leadership practice for nation building and the alleviation of poverty. Paul has extensive experience working in government including law, foreign affairs, regional development, transport and industrial relations.

Paul is a thought-provoking leadership theorist and practitioner whose focus is not on heroic individuals but on collectively exploring innovative solutions to complex contemporary problems. He encourages us to stop waiting for heroes to save us from our problems, speak up when things are not working, develop a clear sense of purpose about values and direction and create a sense of possibility on critical issues.
