Overview

Great Teams don't just happen. They are a result of clear intentions, solid beliefs and a lot of hard work. But where do we start the journey of navigating how to create a great team? We get clear on the patterns that make great teams, and we allow our teams the time and space to own this for themselves. This is what this day provides. By focussing on the three patterns of great teams, this day will facilitate robust and clear conversation about why the team exists, what they want to focus on to draw themselves together, and how they want to support one another along the way. Super practical with clear outcomes they can apply the very next day, this workshop will take your team from good to great, from great to greater.

Who should attend this course?

This course is for anyone who wants to find out about the kind of team you are at your best, determine the goals that will unite you, and articulate how you will support each other along the way.

Learning Outcomes

The workshop will result in three clear statements designed by the team under the careful support and guide of the facilitator.

1. What you look like at your best; what you want to be known for
2. What goals you want to focus on over the next 6-12 months that will unite you
3. How you will support each other along the way; the behaviours that will define you
